Charity house for sale to aid Legacy

Leading builder Dennis Family Homes is presently offering a newly completed home for sale at the Manor Lakes estate in Wyndham Vale to raise funds for Legacy.

The house chosen by Dennis Family Homes for the project is the Edgewood 221, a new design for 2011 from its Aspirations Series range.

Amongst its many features, the double-storey home in Holloway Street includes three bedrooms, two bathrooms, study and garage. As with all Dennis Family Homes designs, the Edgewood 221 is luxuriously appointed and expertly constructed with quality and excellence.

The brand new home is available for sale now as a fully completed house and land package at $409,700. Dennis Family Homes will be donating the profit from the house component of the package to Legacy.

“The Edgewood we have constructed at Manor Lakes is ready and waiting to provide a wonderful home for the fortunate buyer and at the same time its sale will generate proceeds for a marvellous cause,” said Dennis family patriarch and company founder, Bert Dennis.

Mr Dennis urged prospective buyers to be quick in contacting sales consultant Don George on (03) 8742 2207 or 0419 383 099 to arrange an inspection while the home is still available.

The charity house initiative continues a long-standing association between Legacy and the Dennis family.

“This is the third charity house we have constructed for Legacy,” Mr Dennis revealed.

“Legacy provided tremendous assistance to my own family during my youth and remains close to my heart to this day,” he explained.

The first Legacy charity house was also constructed by Dennis Family Homes at the Manor Lakes estate in 2006, followed by a second home at Bendigo one year later. Together these highly successful previous projects raised almost $85,000 in support of the charity.

Mr Dennis said that his company was proud to continue its close working association with Legacy, a uniquely Australian organisation established in 1923 which is dedicated to the welfare of widows and dependants of war veterans.

“We feel this charitable initiative is a most positive way to actively demonstrate our ongoing support for Legacy’s work in the community with the families of deceased veterans of past and present day.”

Mr Chris Spence, Melbourne Legacy President, welcomed the announcement of the generous donation from Dennis Family Homes.

“We are delighted to receive confirmation of such a magnificent donation,” Mr Spence said.

“It is exciting news and a truly good news story of a former Junior Legatee demonstrating his appreciation for past Legacy support. This most generous initiative of Dennis Family Homes will provide much needed funds to support Legacy’s caring work into the future.”
